BELOIT MEN ENJOY BANQUET AT MYERS
Beloit College Alumni, Faculty and Former Students Exchange
Greetings at Meeting
Last Night.
An enthusiastic meeting of Beloit college alumni, faculty members and former students was held at the Myers House last evening, the occasion being a meeting of the Beloit valley association. A banquet was served at seven o'clock in the ordinary of the hotel after which there were a few short informal addresses.
W. S. Jeffris acting as toastmaster called on various ones for remarks.
President Edward D. Eaton, who is now in the midst of a campaign to raise $500,000 additional endowment, was full of plans for the college's future. He said that he hopes that two new buildings might be secured
for the college out of the funds now being raised, one a freshman dormitory and the other an art building in which to store the priceless art treasures which the college now owns and which have been recently augmented.
Dr. Eaton gave an interesting account of the manner in which this extensive endowment raising campaign started. He first requested the general education board for $50,000 on condition that the college raise $200,- 000. After due consideration the board politely declined. Dr. Eaton said he was at a loss to know why this was done as the board had usually been so willing to give encouragement.
Finally Dr. Eaton decided to return to the board with a larger proposal. On condition that the college raise $400,000, which was granted at once the idea being that Beloit was able to handle a much larger campaign than they at first planned.
Dean Geo. L. Collie in his talk outlined briefly the plan system which he advocates as a solution for some of the problems of college life. By this system every student will enjoy the benefits of group life as soon as he enters school. The perfection of this plan and the securing of a more cosmopolitan student body were urged as ways in which to make Beloit more attractive. Dean Collie said he wished that every continent on the globe
might be represented at Beloit, a condition which he prophesied would give an added attraction to the institution for local students tending to broaden their viewpoint.
Other speakers last night included
Dr. Kunkle who has just come to the college faculty from Sheffield school,
Yale university; Prof. R. C. Chapin,
C. B. Salmon, H. C. Buell, A. E. Mathe-
son and Rev. W. A. Rowell. Rev.
Rowell expressed the thought that the alumni gatherings might become more influential in their relation to the college and that through them the alumni might be better represented on the board of trustees.
Those present last evening were:
President Edward D. Eaton, Dean
George L. Collie, Prof. T. L. Wright,
Dr. Robert C. Chapin, Prof. R. K. Richardson, Prof. H. D. Densmore, Dr.
Kunkle, C. B. Salmon, Ed. H. Light, Ira Buell, Seth Gregory, Earl Cleveland, C. S. Gregory, E. P. Salmon, J.
Hubbard Rev. Wilford Rowell W. S.
Jeffris, H. C. Buell, A. P. Lovejoy, Dr.
Sutherland, A. E. Matheson, O. D. An-driest, H. J. Cunningham, F. V. Warner, Kenneth Jeffris, G. L. McGee.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT MYERS LAST NIGHT
Bessey Company Played to Appreciative Audience in "The Girl
From Yankeland."
At the Myers Theatre last night the Jack Bessey Company presented a four act comedy drama, "The Girl From Yankeland," to a large and well pleased audience. If it had not been for the very bad weather, the house would have been packed. Mr. Bessey is carrying the very best stock company in the middle west this season,
his plays are most all new and he is certainly giving the public their money's worth. The play last night was well cast and up to his usual good standard. As usual Mr. Bessey and Miss Paul were seen in the leading roles and were given excellent support by the rest of the company. The specialties of T. Aye and Brandon are a big feature and received several encores. Tonight they will present their feature bill, the four act society
drama, "A Father's Sin." Friday night
the attraction will be Joe Tinker's famous baseball play, the four act comedy drama, "A Home Run." A special matinee will be given Saturday when they will offer the three act
pastoral comedy drama, "The Peacemaker."

RECEIVED WORD OF DEATH OF BROTHER IN CHINA.
George H. and Joseph Esser, Notified
Of Death of Melchior Esser
On U. S. Warship.
Word was received here yesterday
by George H. and Joseph Esser of this city, of the death of their brother, Melchior Esser, who died while serving with the United States navy in China. The word was received through a telegram from Washington.
D. C., notification of his death having been received there from China. The deceased was twenty-one years of age and had been on one of the U. S. bar-clips in the Philippines, when it was ordered to China. He was born January 25, 1891, and spent his childhood at Cross Plains and at Madison.
The brothers here were notified that if they desired, the body would be brought to this country, and they have wired to Washington to have the remains shipped to Cross Plains, as other relatives, residing there desired to have the remains brought there for burial from the old home. The body will probably not arrive in this country until the middle of December.

SPECIAL CLASS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE
Instructor in Domestic Science Plans
Class For Girls Desiring to Make Christmas Gifts.
Miss Cornish, instructor in domestic science at the high school, has announced her intention of organizing an after school class for those young ladies of the school not taking domestic science to do special work for the coming holidays. Christmas presents are what will be made, and a good deal
of interest is being taken in this work.
It is expected that the class will be large, and interesting. Special invitations have been given to those not taking this course in sewing, although all regular students will be admitted first, and then the outsiders. The class will meet on Wednesday nights
immediately after school.
Talked on Order.
Prof. Buell gave a grueling talk on order this morning. Communication forbidden during school hours has been increasing rapidly in the last few weeks, and he declared that all this disorder would not take place
only for the mass of students, and that one student would not think of doing this if left alone. He compared this to an incident which happened several years ago at the coronation of the Czar of Russia. At this inauguration sentinels were to be handed out to all who wished them. The mass throughout the city were so eager to obtain these that many were killed and trampled upon in an attempt to get one of these gifts. He emphasized the fact that in other high schools,
the assembly rooms are being abolished and that separate rooms for about 100 students are being taken up.
He has notified the students as a whole that when they are again caught in this form of disorder, something serious will be done.

WOMEN'S MEETINGS HELD AT CHURCHES
Ladies of Various Churches Holding Meetings to Discuss Conditions
Among Women and Girls of City.
In connection with the movement
for the organization of a woman's club for civic betterment and reform
in this city, meetings are being held at the various churches this week to discuss conditions as they exist
among the women and girls of the city. The meetings are for women only, and the subjects are discussed in much the same manner as civic reform has been taken up at the meetings of the men's clubs. No definite steps have yet been taken toward organization, but it is quite likely that this may be done after thorough consideration of the necessary for a woman's civic betterment club. As a result of the division meeting last week, there was a mass meeting of women at the Congregational church yesterday afternoon in the church parlors, at which several talks were given by ladies present.

This afternoon there was a gathering of women at the Baptist church
at three o'clock and Mrs. Janet B.
Day spoke. A call has been issued for a meeting of all women interested in the moral betterment of Janesville, which will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the United Brethren church. Mrs. Day will speak at this meeting on civic conditions and conditions of women and girls in the city, which should be known, will be brought out.
Mrs. Janet B. Day will also address a meeting of women on Friday afternoon at half past three o'clock in the Presbyterian church, concerning the moral conditions of the city.

BELOIT SUPERVISORS
ASK FOR A HEARING ON APPORTIONMENT
Beloit men an opportunity to present their case. It is of the utmost importance that the work of Mr.
Taylor be verified or to find the whole truth of the matter. Let the gentlemen from Beloit present their facts.
Supervisor Smith quoted figures
for the towns of Avon and Turtle, townships which, he said, the income tax assessors had said in his report
had been assessed at their true value taking occasion to compliment them on it, and at the same time he had made an estimate of the true value much higher than the assessed valuation. He made raises, indistinguishably, charged Mr. Smith.
He believed that the same would apply to all the townships as well as the cities.
Objects to Attitude.
Supervisor Gettle objected to the attitude taken by the Beloit board members and in an oratorical outburst charged them with questioning the veracity of a county official when in fact they had not one fact to substantiate their assertions. If they could not forward facts it was well and good, but if the conservation of this matter before the board would amount only to incriminations and discriminations, as was largely the case before the committee, he objected to any review of the matter whatsoever.
Supervisor Richardson ventured
the opinion that if the Beloit men wanted to expose the estimates on the valuation of property of definite individuals before the whole board,
they would tend to destroy all confidence in the supervisory assessments in that he would be forced to publicly reveal definite figures for various parties. He objected to that phase of the matter.
The matter stands at present in fairly definite shape. Mr. Taylor will appear before the board probably on Saturday morning with all papers to show how he arrived at his figures for the true valuation of Be-loft properties, collectively and individually, and the Beloit supervisors and merchants will present their side of the case, with figures and facts, in an endeavor to show that their proportion of the county valuation was unduly raised.
Fight Undertakers' Bill.
The only other matter before the board this morning was the settlement of an undertakers' bill referred to the board from Committee
No. 10. The bill was introduced by E.
Ryan and Sons was for $48.50 which included all funeral expenses. Poor-
master Anderson had refused to O.
K. a bill for that amount as the regular allowance for such matters was usually $27.
Mr. Ryan and his attorney, E. H.
Ryan, were present at the meeting and asked for a hearing. They explained how they had been called to take care of the body of the man killed by a St. Paul train near Avi-
on. The bill was introduced by E.
Ryan and Sons was for $48.50 which included all funeral expenses. Poor-
master Anderson had refused to O.
K. a bill for that amount as the regular allowance for such matters was
usually $27.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.
To Install Officers: Janesville
Knights of Columbus will tonight install their recently elected officers at
their rooms in the Jackson block.
Injured by Lathe: "Bye" Jones
had several fingers on his left hand
caught in a lathe at the Manning shop
on North Franklin street yesterday
afternoon and suffered severe bruises.
The wound, though very painful will not keep Mr. Jones away from work
for more than a few days.
Had Banquet: The young ladies' class of the Baptist church which gave so successfully
"Old Maids' Convention" about a year ago, gave a six course banquet
at the church parlors Tuesday evening.
The decorations were in red
and white suggestive of approaching
Christmas season. A most enjoyable time was had and plans were made for the festive good of the class.
Survey For Drain: Assistants of
City Engineer C. V. Korch began today to run levels for a storm sewer to extend from the intersection of Eastern Avenue and McKee Boulevard to
the river, a distance of about four hundred feet. Fifteen inch tile have been ordered. The drainage from all sides finds its way to this intersection
and the improvement is badly needed.
The sewer will also carry the waste
water from the new drinking fountain,
and the Spring Brook fire station will
be given a temporary sanitary connection with it.
Finish Paving: The paving of Fourth Avenue between North Main street and the bridge was finished yesterday afternoon with the exception of
an expansion joint. The Fourth Avenue bridge has been closed to traffic
since bricklaying was started Wednesday, but will be opened to travel by
the first of next week.
Working on Logan Street: Gray,
Robinson & Company's sewer construction crew is now at work on Logan avenue where they have about 1500 feet of sewer to put in. It is not necessary to dig the trenches as
deep there as has been necessary on
other streets, and if the weather is not
unfavorable the work will probably be completed in about two weeks.
Died in Harvard: Mr. and Mrs.
Flord Hains of this city have received word of the death of his cousin's wife, Mrs. Harry Hains, of Harvard, Ill., which occurred yesterday morning. The remains have been taken to Edgerton for burial.
Unusual Record: Elizabeth Bar-
rett, a grand-daughter of Mrs. H.
Knoff of this city and who attended the
John Piske school at Ingleside, Chicago, has the unusual record of eight years' attendance without absence of
tardiness.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith of Albany,
are spending the week with sister, Mrs. James Sollinger.

MAKES REPORT ON THE FIRE SYSTEM
Statistics Given by I. F. Wortendyke in Paper at Twilight Club to Credit of Department.
That the Janesville fire department
is one of the most economically administered in the state is shown by statistics and deductions made from them presented by I. F. Wortendyke
in a paper read at the last meeting of the Twilight club. In only one case were the per capita figures for Janesville above the average of the twelve cities for which figures were presented—that of the estimated value of lands and buildings belonging to cities for the use of the fire departments.
The average per capita in eleven cities is $1.456; in Janesville, $1.656.
The maximum value per capita
$1.619, is that of the fire department buildings of Racine, the minimum, $.613, that of Green Bay. The total value of Janesville fire stations and the land they occupy is $23,000. East side station, $8,000; West side station, $12,000; Spring Brook, $3,000.
The average total expense per capita for the last fiscal year, exclusive of hydrant rental, in the same number of cities, was $1.206. Janesville's cost was $1.119; the maximum, in the city of Superior, $1.684; the minimum, in the city of Kenosha, $.787. The figures for Janesville also include the cost of the fire police.
The city of Superior also shows the highest cost per capita for the last fiscal year for the fire department
pay roll, $1.424; Kenosha, the lowest, $.655. The average for the eleven cities is $.938. Janesville's figure is $.778. This includes the cost of the fire police.
Firemen's salaries in Janesville are below the average of the eleven cities. For the first year the highest average monthly wage is $62.95; the wage in Janesville is $60. Superior has the maximum figure, $78.00, and Manitowoc the minimum figure, $64.50. For the third year the average monthly wage is $68.82. Janes-ville's figure is $65.00. Superior again has the maximum, $85.00, and Manitowoc the minimum, $63.00. Superior pays its chief the highest salary per month, $158.33; Wausau, the lowest, $85.00; Janesville, $100.00. The average of the chief's salary in the eleven cities is $110.
Janesville pays an annual hydrant rental per capita of $.532, next to the lowest of all the cities for which figures were obtained. Municipally owned plants make no report of the cost of hydrants. The average for the eleven cities is $.622 per capita. Be-loft, pays $.99 per capita, Appleton $.715; Racine, $.404; Green Bay, $.612; Manitowoc, $.729.
The estimated value of fire fighting apparatus per capita, exclusive of fire alarm lines and boxes, per capita, averages $1.112. For Janesville the figure is $1.037, the total value of the apparatus being $14,407.50. Superior has the maximum value per capita,
$2.118; Kenosha, the lowest, $.561.
The total valuation of property in Janesville subject to a fire hazard is $9,834,387. This figure was obtained by subtracting from the total taxable property the value of land and bank stocks. This gives a hazard per capita of $707.52, to protect which each citizen of Janesville pays $11.84 per year, not including hydrant rental.
The total fire loss for the last ten years is $339,000.00, an average of $33,900 per year, equivalent to a loss per capita of $2.44 per annum. The average insurance rate is somewhere in the neighborhood of 75 cents per $100.00. To insure the average hazard of $707 would require an annual premium of $5.25.

SCHRAUNK'S SANITY DECISION SATURDAY
Alienists Expect to Be Ready With Report. This Week—Final Disposition on Monday.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, Nov. 14.—Alienists examining John Schrank, the confessed assault of Theodore Roosevelt, today privately told Municipal Judge A. J.
C. Backus that it might be possible for them to give him their official opinion of the man's sanity Saturday.
Daily examination of Schrank has brought the specialists to a tentative conclusion, it is understood from this.
He has shown, one of the experts said, privately today, evidence that he considers himself a deep student of the psychology of the soul and of the mind, is capable of adjusting any wrong condition which he may apply himself to, and is peculiarly fitted to question affecting the public. Hence he might, this man believed, at some

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.
To Install Officers: Janesville
Knights of Columbus will tonight install their recently elected officers at
their rooms in the Jackson block.
Injured by Lathe: "Bye" Jones
had several fingers on his left hand
caught in a lathe at the Manning shop
on North Franklin street yesterday
afternoon and suffered severe bruises.
The wound, though very painful will
not keep Mr. Jones away from work
for more than a few days.
Had Banquet: The young ladies' class of the Baptist
church which gave so successfully
"Old Maids' Convention" about a year ago, gave a six course banquet
at the church parlors Tuesday evening.
The decorations were in red
and white suggestive of approaching
Christmas season. A most enjoy-
able time was had and plans were made for the festive good of the
class.
Survey For Drain: Assistants of
City Engineer C. V. Korch began today to run levels for a storm sewer to
extend from the intersection of Eastern Avenue and McKee Boulevard to
the river, a distance of about four hundred feet. Fifteen inch tile have been ordered. The drainage from all sides finds its way to this intersection
and the improvement is badly needed.
The sewer will also carry the waste
water from the new drinking fountain,
and the Spring Brook fire station will
be given a temporary sanitary connection with it.
Finish Paving: The paving of Fourth Avenue between North Main
street and the bridge was finished yester-
day afternoon with the exception of
an expansion joint. The Fourth Avenue bridge has been closed to traffic
since bricklaying was started Wednes-
day, but will be opened to travel by
the first of next week.
Working on Logan Street: Gray,
Robinson & Company's sewer construction crew is now at work on Logan avenue where they have about 1500 feet of sewer to put in. It is not necessary to dig the trenches as
deep there as has been necessary on
other streets, and if the weather is not
unfavorable the work will probably be
completed in about two weeks.
Died in Harvard: Mr. and Mrs.
Flord Hains of this city have received word of the death of his cousin's wife, Mrs. Harry Hains, of Harvard, Ill., which occurred yesterday morning. The remains have been taken to Edgerton for burial.
Unusual Record: Elizabeth Bar-
rett, a grand-daughter of Mrs. H.
Knoff of this city and who attended the
John Piske school at Ingleside, Chicago, has the unusual record of eight years' attendance without absence of
tardiness.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith of Albany,
are spending the week with sister, Mrs. James Sollinger.

MRS. WORRY.

BY C. A. VOIGHT.

Fight fans are beginning to speculate as to the probable outcome of the match between Luther McCarty and Jim Flynn at San Francisco on December 3. McCarty beat Al Kaufman and Carl Morris by the K. O. route. He must be a skillful boxer. However, Flynn, also has given both Morris and Kaufman a murderous beating and has had more experience at the fight game than has McCarty. Flynn is a crafty ring general, a rough fellow at nighting, and he has a dangerous wallop in either hand, besides being a difficult customer to land upon effectively. He looks like the winner in the Frisco battle.

Minneapolis will witness the season's biggest football game in the west on Saturday when Minnesota and Wisconsin fight it out for the western conference championship. Wisconsin is picked to win, in spite of bad luck which has taken Johnny Van Riper, driving halfback, out of the game and brought serious injuries to other members of the team.

Michigan students are said to be feeling very glum over the poor showing made by the men of Yost in this season's games. The Wolverines have been defeated by two inferior eastern teams, Syracuse and Pennsylvania. They barely nosed out a 7 to 6 victory in the game with South Dakota. The season closes at Ann Arbor next Saturday when Michigan meets Cornell. Despite the Michigan's mediocre showing throughout the season, the attendance at Saturday's game promises to be a record-breaker.

Columbia University wants football back again. The students are clamoring for it. They point to the poor material in Columbia's teams, and argue that without football big men cannot be expected to go to Columbia. Apparently the percentage of big men at Columbia today, says the Columbia Spectator, "is woefully small and we trace this condition directly to the abolition of football. It can hardly be expected that powerful athletes who give promise of successful college athletic careers, will waste from their point of view, their four best years at an institution where there is no football team to make."

Charles B. Dierborow, the Philadelphia swimmer whose performances last summer stamped him as one of the best long distance men in the world, declares he is about to quit the game for good. His proposed thirty-four mile swim in New York harbor from Sandy Hook to the Battery and thence to Coney Island has been called off.

For the first time since the formation of the American Association in 1902, the Louisville baseball club is now under the control of home capital. A syndicate of Louisville citizens raised about $100,000 and turned it over to Owner William Grayson for the club. Local ownership ought to do much to boost baseball in the Kentucky city. Foreign ownership, for many years accounts for Louisville's having gained the name of being a bad baseball city.

WILL AWAIT OUTCOME OF GAME SATURDAY

Final Arrangements for Game With Madison Will Not Be Made Until Result of Madison-La Crosse Game is Known.

Coach Curtis of the high school eleven called by telephone this morning to hear what they had to say regarding a game. Coach Winters of the Madison squad told him that a final arrangement would be made on next Monday. Madison wishes to wait until the game with La Crosse is played off, which takes place at Madison this Saturday. If Madison wins then something will be done to arrange a game with the locals. If La Crosse wins, then the locals will look to the defeating of the northern school for the title. It seems this year that the state championship is going to be a decided affair. There are two other teams springing up now being the Oshkosh and Eau Claire teams of the northern part of the state. With these two teams and La Crosse and Madison and Janesville, in the running, it may take until after Thanksgiving to decide the championship if the weather permits. Madison seems to have promised Oshkosh a game before the locals challenge was received. However, Madison wished to know if the locals could play before Thanksgiving if they defeated La Crosse. This can only be done by canceling the Waukesha game. If Madison wins from La Crosse Saturday, then the local fans should prepare for the coming game with the

HARVARD DREAMS OF CHAMPIONSHIP

But two rivals stand in Harvard's way to the eastern intercollegiate football championship, Dartmouth and Yale. Crimson fans expect Harvard to win both contests. The Cambridge institution has an unusual number of stars this year. Briceley has shone the brightest, but Captain Wendell and Parmenter have both given good accounts of themselves, and are expected to be important factors in the two remaining games.

WISCONSIN STRAINS EVERY NERVE IN PREPARATION FOR SATURDAY'S BIG GAME

"Tubby" Keeler (at the right) and Right Tackle Butler.

Wisconsin is straining every nerve this week in preparation for her contest with Minnesota on Saturday for the western conference championship. In spite of the fact that the Badgers cleaned up everything in right this season, including the University of Chicago, they are not going to repeat the last half of the 1911 season, when over-confidence cost them a championship. Among Wisconsin's star players this season are Keeler and Butler. Keeler, who plays at right guard, is the biggest surprise at Wisconsin. Though but a sophomore he has made good with a vengeance on the varsity. Butler, whose job is right tackle, is one of the best tacklers in the conference. In the Chicago game he distinguished himself by making a fifty yard dash for a touchdown.

BATTLE WITHIN A BATTLE WHEN YALE AND PRINCETON MEET FOR ANNUAL GAME

Ketcham, Yale Center.

A battle will age within a battle when Yale and Princeton play their annual football game on Nov. 16. Ketcham and Bluthenthal will fight it out for center of the All-America team. Ketcham, Yale's center, made the All-America last year, just rising out of the Princeton star. This season, however, Bluthenthal has shown marked improvement and apparently has the edge on his Yale opponent.

John Watts (on left), German army officer in center, and Arthur Atherton. The accompanying picture of John Watts, the American balloonist, and two companions was taken just before the start of the international balloon race at Stuttgart, Germany. Descending at a place about 400 miles from St. Petersburg, the balloon in landing struck Watts on the head, rendering him unconscious. When the police arrived Watts was arrested on suspicion of being a German spy. He was held for five days until the situation could be fully explained to the governor.

HE'D LIKE TO MEET AD WOLGAST AGAIN

Battling Nelson.

Battling Nelson has visions of a return match with Ad Wolgast. The Dane declares he will never voluntarily retire from the game until he has the privilege of one more crack at the lad who took the championship from him. Nelson thinks Wolgast has dodged him because he fears the result of another mill. Bat has been signed up by a New York sporting club for a fight in New York about the middle of the month.

Enough for Him. "Remember, my son, that beauty is only skin deep," warned the sage. "That's deep enough for me," replied the young man. "I'm no cannibal."

Mrs. Fred Laabs, 408 High Forest, Winona, Minn., states: "My husband had kidney trouble with severe pain across his back and was miserable and tired out. His bladder acted irregularly and there was a brick dust like sediment. Finally he took Foley Kidney Pills with the result that the pain left him, his bladder acted regularly and he was strong and well again." Badger Drug Co.

Speaking by the Card. Mrs. Taylor: "What's that saying about the watched pot, Bob? A watched pot—'" "Mr. Taylor, (absently)—" "A watched pot is seldom shy."

COAL OPERATORS' STATEMENT.

The following statement has been issued by the committee of anthracite operators:

"In view of the uneasiness about the supply of anthracite, and the fact that some consumers are complaining that an abnormally high price is asked for coal at this time, the operators desire to make a positive statement as to their course of action in the present situation.

"The larger mining companies are holding absolutely to their circular prices. They have not advanced these to the dealers to whom they sell and have no intention of doing so. By far the greater part of the total anthracite output is being sold by the original producers at the circular prices.

"Some of the 'independent' operators are selling their output at a premium—that is, at a price above the circular. The retail dealers who advance the price to their customers do so, in many cases, because they are paying a premium to such operators for some part of the coal they handle. But for whatever reason the retail price may be advanced to consumers, it is not due to any increase of prices on the part of the larger operators.

"It is true, unquestionably, that there has been a relative scarcity of coal. The severe weather of last winter and spring exhausted the reserve, and the suspension in April and May caused a loss of ten or twelve million tons in production. By full-time operations of the mines, however, the operators have made up some of the loss; and the shipments from January 1 to October 31 of this year, instead of being ten or twelve million tons less, show a decrease of only 6,145,018 tons from the shipments in the corresponding ten months of 1911.

"The operators are convinced that, though this year's production is behind last year's consumers will not suffer for want of coal if they will content themselves with moderate purchases for the time, and not attempt to lay in a large store in advance and thus create an artificial scarcity. In the ordinary course of business, that is, in the absence of strikes or other abnormal happenings, there will be no lack of coal to meet the demands of every market."

This statement should put at rest any uneasiness which may prevail concerning the supply of anthracite coal, and yet it does not satisfy the man who is obliged to pay a premium to take care of his trade, as was the case with a local dealer in a nearby town, who recently paid $200 above the market to secure 100 tons for immediate delivery.

The suggestion in the last paragraph of the statement is good advice, and if people are content to follow it, there should be no trouble in securing coal at the market price.

The shortage of cars has had much to do with scarcity of fuel in many localities, but this will regulate itself, within a reasonable time, for the heavy demand for grain shipment will soon be lightened.

The national progressive party, with any other leader than Colonel Roosevelt, would not have been in the race; in fact, it would have been a minus quantity in the campaign, but for his leadership. The party has served its purpose, as an independent organization, by beating Taft, and satisfying the colonel's ambition. It will die a natural death, for the tail is too short to wag the dog successfully. If the democrats give the country a good administration, Mr. Wilson will succeed himself, and the colonel, with other aspiring patriots, will be neglected. The colonel has had his day, and should be satisfied to quit.

Many people will be surprised to know that there are 4,000 concerns in Chicago engaged in the mail order business. Many of them are curbstone brokers, with neither office or responsibility. When the parcels post is established, the country will be flooded with this class of fakery, and a gullible public will contribute to their success. The best place to buy goods is in the home market, of people who have a reputation for honesty and square dealing.

The state of California is still in doubt, with Roosevelt slightly in the lead. Results would have been different had Taft's electors appeared on the ticket, but for the first time in the history of the state the republican national ticket was not represented. The "square deal" talk, that the people have heard so much about, during the past few years, was a good deal of a farce in California.

The Chicago Tribune is out of a job, politically, and finds plenty of time for consolation in predicting what might have happened had the colonel been elected. About eight years of rest under democratic administration may help some. It is possible that the new president may need a little advice. If so, the Chicago dictator, and "Collier's," will grasp the opportunity and save the country some more.

The ten thousand dollars appropriated for a preliminary survey of Rock river was the means of contributing to the pleasure of a lot of college boys who camped along the banks of the stream last summer. The funds are evidently exhausted, and another effort will be made to draw on the "pork barrel." Of all the visionary schemes that ever excited the ordinary brain, the navigation of upper Rock river is the limit.

The two great trunk lines, between Chicago and New York, have finally come to their senses and the 18-hour trains have been abandoned. The losses by accident, and other causes, were terrific. The craze for speed had become a mania, and the roads were foolish in ever attempting to gratify it. Twenty hours between Chicago and New York is fast enough for either comfort or safety.

The County Board is to be commended for the interest expressed in the tubercular sanatorium. The work of stamping out the white plague is an important work, and every county in the state can afford to lend a hand, as many of them are doing. It is humane work as well, and the expense should not be considered.

STATE PRESS AND POLITICS.

William Howard Taft.
Chicago Examiner: To William Howard Taft history will be kinder than the times in which he lived.

He was not framed for a great executive. That fine judicial mind and temper balancing the even sides of great questions was prejudicial to swift decision and vigorous execution. He would have made an ideal justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. And to this high and serene station all his desires and ambitions moved—rather than to the presidency.

Theodore Roosevelt, and another influence led his unwilling feet to the White House at a time when they might have carried him to the bench. But William Howard Taft is an honest, great-hearted man and an unselfish lover of his country. And this mood of praise—with all the responsibility for some great measures will surely live—must be the present epitaph upon a political career which is evidently closed.

He has occupied for four years the highest office in the world. And he leaves it without a stain.

Not Dead Yet.

Little Clara, aged three, was always asking for dried apples. Her mother, fearing this diet might lead to harm, told her of a boy who had eaten dried apples which swelled in his stomach and caused his death. Clara was much impressed, but the temptation was strong, and one day, when she had been absent for a time, the piping voice came triumphantly from the room where the strings of apples hung: "Muvver, I ain't dead yet."

Electric Power for Housework.

The total cost of power for sewing, washing and wringing, mangle, ironing, chopping meat, grinding coffee, and polishing silver would be a sum that almost any housekeeper would be willing to pay for a few hours more to call her own, or for being able to take a more independent stand on the servant question. Electricity has advanced far enough now to give her the opportunity she has longed for.—Electrical Review.

Gough Cure.

If you can stand the odor, a bad cough can often be cured by five drops of kerosene taken on a lump of sugar. If this sounds too horrible, much the same effect is achieved by swallowing vaseline.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Ancestry.

When mother joined the D. A. R. we blew in lots of tin. In chasin' up our ancestors before she could get in. We had to find some forefather who'd fit and died, and look inside.

At times it was embarrassin' to say the very least.

To learn some things about the boys who fought away down east.

Dad said that mother better quit and let the matter drop.

But ma just fixed a hard and most sarcastic eye on pop.

And kept right on a stirrin' up traditions of the past.

Until us folks we wondered how on earth the woman dast.

It surely looked at one time that she certainly would fail.

When she found out that nine of them had served their time in jail.

She then dug up a great-great-great-grand uncle who looked good.

Until she found he quit the bunch, as no good soldier should.

And father begged most ardently upon his bearded knee.

For her to stop chasin' up her dog-gone family tree.

He urged her to join something else and try some safer bet.

And said he'd rather have her be a howlin' suffragist.

When she found Uncle Abner 'twas the triumph of her life.

Until she learned that he eloped with some lieutenant's wife.

She kept right on until one day her joy was made complete.

That was the great red letter day when she found Uncle Pete.

It seemed that there was nothing wrong with Uncle Pete at all.

Although she probed his private life from early spring till fall.

He was a soldier brave and true, and fit in many fights.

And helped to put them thirteen little colonies to rights.

Then father bought a new silk hat and us folks on the whole.

Was all so proud you couldn't touch us with at-ten-foot pole.

With Uncle Pete upon our tree, a most adoring limb.

We've had a mighty strenuous time in livin' up to him.

Heart to Heart Talks

By EDWIN A. NYE.

YOUR MOTHER-IN-LAW.

The mother-in-law joke is silly. Mother-in-law criticism is unmanly, and mother-in-law hatred is dangerous.

No chivalric man should permit himself to feel or act other than as a gentleman—if not a son—toward the mother of the woman whom he has made his wife.

What if you cannot precisely see all things from your mother-in-law's point of view or that you sometimes feel she may be indiscreet?

Never mind. Be kind just the same to the woman who bore in pain the wife you love. Be generous and courteous.

If your mother-in-law has little weaknesses your wife knows them better than you. Add if you are manly and large hearted and ignore these defects the woman you have married will feel that you are big and fine, and in her heart she will worship you.

You are in debt to your wife's mother.

If your wife is helpful and sympathetic, if she is a good mother and a good housekeeper, she got those qualities and that training from her mother. What she is to you her mother has made her.

If you do not respect your wife's mother it may be doubted whether you love your wife.

Certain it is that if you continually criticize her mother in the presence of your wife the first thing you know you will lose the love and respect of your wife.

And you ought to lose it. The shafts of censure or of sarcasm you level at her mother go straight through the heart of the daughter. She may not resent it openly, but she keenly feels that a slight offered the mother is a sting at the daughter.

Moreover—If you are too tactful for open criticism, yet at heart are jealous of your wife's family, you cannot entirely hide the feeling, and your wife will think less of you.

What sort of woman would your wife be if when she married you she should turn her back on her family?

Could you trust her? Are not the qualities in your wife which bind her to her mother the qualities that bind her loyalty to you?

This is plain speaking. Is it not true?

Power of Praise.
There is one thing which no man, however generously disposed, can give, but which everyone, however poor, is bound to pay. This is praise. He cannot give it, because it is not his own, since what is dependent for its very existence on something in another can never become to him a possession; nor can he justly withhold it, when the presence of merit claims it as a consequence.—Washington Allston.

Honesty, Essential.

There was a bad fire in our midst last Thursday evening. But the Wide Awake Hose company refused to respond because their new red shirts and tin helmets had not arrived from the uniform manufacturer. The citizens tried to form a bucket brigade, but every volunteer who got hold of bucket started for the Golden Nugget saloon through force of habit and the angry element was left to burn itself out. It is believed if the outraged people of the town had seen feathers and some tar and somebody to put them on, there would be a tar and feather party.

Philosopher's View of Life.
When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a froward child, that must be played with and humored a little to keep it quiet till it falls asleep; and then the care is over.—Sir William Temple.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT THE EXHIBITION

CROWDS AT AUDITORIUM YES-TERDAY ESTIMATED TO HAVE NUMBERED OVER FIVE THOUSAND

OUT OF TOWN PEOPLE

In Large Numbers Viewed The Exhibits Yesterday Afternoon, and Much Praise Was Spoken
for Show and Individual Booths.

Records for attendances at the exhibitions of the "Made in Janesville"
goods at the auditorium were broken
yesterday by the crowds which passed through the building yesterday afternoon and last evening. The visitors at the exhibition yesterday afternoon were mostly people from out of town, not only from the surrounding country, towns and cities,
but from some larger cities as well.
One exhibitor reported people here
from as far south as Genoa Junction,
and others from Albany and Monroe
on the west and Powers Lake and Kenosha county on the east were reported here. The number in the auditorium yesterday afternoon is estimated at about two thousand.
Last evening the crowd was made up mostly of local people, although there were some strangers in the assemblage. From eight o'clock until closing time, there was a throng of people passing through the building,
and the total attendance for yesterday is placed at over five thousand people. In point of numbers, at least, the show has proven a great success in advertising Janesville and "Made in Janesville" goods, and the approbation of the out of town
visitors, judging from their remarks,
has been set upon the big display and the products displayed. The committee in charge of the exhibition are highly pleased with the results thus far achieved, and say the display will be a much greater success than that of last year, which was considered to be very successful.

The Moose band gave a very enjoyable program last evening, and between the band members the Lytle
string orchestra played selections.
Quite a crowd congregated about the Lytle booth to watch the operations of the player piano.

The program for the concert by the band this evening will be as follows:

March—Royal Welcome Home
Two Step—Oh, You Circus Day Man-co.
Waltz—Garden of Love
March—Silver Cliff
Two Step—Moonlight Bay
Serenade—Twilight Echoes
Two Step—Mammy's Shufflin'
Cliff
Aren—On Wisconsin
Purdy
A novel stunt was tried by the workers in the booth of the New Gas Light company last evening. Since the booth opened they have been baking biscuits in the gas ovens on display in the booth. Last evening they decided to go one better than that, and they cooked and ate their supper in the booth. Little midday sausage, made at the butcher shop of John F. Schmitt, were donated to the workers by Mr. Schmitt, and with waaffles, hot biscuits, coffee and other dainties, an appetizing meal was served.

Electric toasters and cooking devices were put to use in the exhibit of the Janesville Electric company
last evening, and small pancakes were baked and bread toasted. Visitors who cared for them were invited to partake while the workers in the booth explained the uses to which the appliances might be put.

To Sail For Greece: S. Condos, proprietor of the Aerodrome theatre, and James Kachanis of the Olympia fruit store leave next Monday for New York where they will take passage for the port of Patros, Greece, and will report for service in the war against the Turks. Both are reservists and have been summoned home. Condos and Kachanis are members of the third regiment of Greek cavalry and saw service in the war against the Turks in 1897. That war did not last over a month and the fighting was confined to the province of Thessaly.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 14, 1912.
Editor Gazette:

As I have written several communications in the past and they have always been published, I thought maybe I might be able to get you to publish this one for me. I am not writing for my own personal gratification, but for all the people that toil daily, six days in the week, and have not much leisure time at their disposal excepting probably Sunday. I want to say a few words in regard to theatres and the reform wave that is now at the present time occupying the attention of our citizens. Reforms, as everyone knows, cannot be accomplished without public sentiment behind them, and possibly for the first time in many years the reform sentiment in this city is in the majority. The commissioners, the committee of fifteen, together with the chief of police and his men, are doing excellent work, and we must stand shoulder to shoulder with them if we intend to keep up the good work. I for one, have no fear of these men. They are not going to do anything but what will be for the best interests of everybody, nor are they going to retard our city from further advancement.

To deprive the working people of this one solitary amusement which they now have, namely the theatres on Sunday, might be the undoing of all the good that has been accomplished in the way of reform. Public sentiment generally holds the upper hand; either one way or the other, let us not go to the extreme; for if we do, just as sure as the sun rises in the east and sets in the west, all our good work will have been done for naught. Last spring the theatres opened their doors on Sunday afternoons and evenings and everything has been going along smoothly until Monday when a citizen filed a complaint against the proprietors and they were fined. I do not question his right in doing so, but he ought to have taken in consideration that the law is an old law, possibly older than himself, and has outgrown its usefulness. Times have changed since then. In those days such a thing as a moving picture show was never thought of. All these changes and improvements have come since. In these days there are no street cars to take us to church on Sunday, or to the cemetery or wherever we might choose to go. We either went by foot or took our horse. Now we have electric cars to convey us to our destination, but it makes work for the motormen, conductors, engineers, etc. That might be called unnecessary work if you choose, but the public demands it.

In those days we were satisfied to go to the postoffice and get our Sunday morning papers. Now we must have our papers delivered on our doorsteps before breakfast by newsboys who have to get up at four o'clock to accommodate us. Simply because times have changed and we are in a progressive age. You might say it is unnecessary to work those boys on Sunday, the engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen, who haul these papers to their destination. But we must let them.

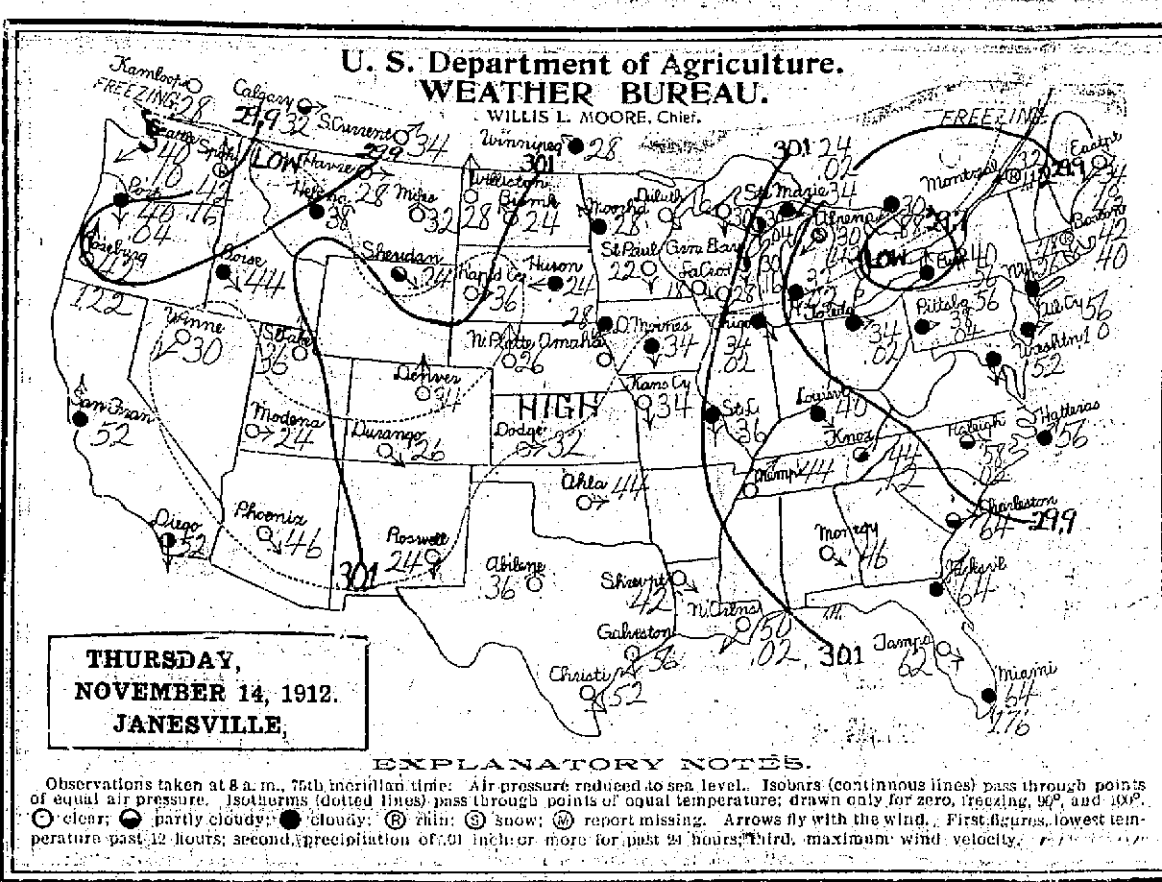

Some day in the near future we may look back and say "there was a time when we could not get into a saloon on a Sunday in Janesville and get a drink, but not now." That's progressive and we don't need them. And so it is with the question of theatres on Sunday. The games and other amusements that our forefathers indulged in might not satisfy us. We want something to our own taste, something more up-to-date and progressive. Be it golf, baseball, theatres, playgrounds, or anything else. Maybe in another decade other amusements might take the place of those which we now think best, and so it goes merrily on, the people keeping pace with new sciences and inventions.

And suppose we go to a theatre or a baseball game, or to the playgrounds (if we only had them) on a Sunday afternoon, is that going to hinder us from fulfilling our obligation to the church or breaking up the whole day of the Sabbath? Can't we go to church at least once on that day and still find a little time for recreation? It was only last Sunday, after attending Sunday school and eating their dinner, that my boys, two of them, asked me for a dime to go to the five cent theatre. To have refused them this small privilege would have been downright shame. That is the only day they can go, as they go to bed every night at eight o'clock so they can get a good night's sleep, and be prepared to attend to their school duties.

And so it is with the theatres. The day has passed when you can compel people to go to church all the time. The people want some recreation besides going to church that we work together. Let us be unitary because we are not, we will land like the Republican party did this fall. Let us have the theatres, baseball, playgrounds and other amusements, and plenty of them, at all times. Let us help the city administration and others who are trying to uplift the morals of our beautiful city and all will be well. The following clipping from the Mothers' Magazine might be of some interest.

"Motion pictures to my mind, have done more to uplift the morals of the young especially in the working class, where few luxuries are possible, than any discovery of our age," said a thoughtful policeman one day, in the Chicago slums. "The natural youthful mind demands some recreation; now, instead of slipping beer and lolling about on park benches until the moonlight weakens their power of reason, they are laughing together and learning to gether what the world is like. When they have taken in two of the motion picture shows they are ready to go home rested and not desiring wrong because the face of a certain mother, or the sacrifice of a brave young man or woman has led them up, not coaxed them down the dangerous way."

Signed as always,
Workingman.

The storm in the Lake Region has moved very slowly during the past 24 hours, its center having advanced only from Michigan to Lake Ontario. It has been attended by gales in the session of the pulp; of the business houses, of the clubs, cultured and uncultured, the sewing societies, the pink tea parties, and is heaven for animated conversations on street corners and in public places. It is knocking the city at home and throughout the state and beyond the confines of the state. It is doing more harm than an army of boosters can offset, or than a brigade of automobile advertisers and boosters, spending their time and money making trips to neighboring cities and villages can counteract.

And what is the cause of this frenzy? It is said, ordinances of the city and statutes of the state are being violated. That may be true. It is true to a more or less degree in every city and community in this state. Such violations are not confined, however, to the class of citizens. It is as frequent of those who advertise their virtues as with those who work in humble spheres of life. It is as true in clubs of high standing as in those in which membership is not deemed a badge of honorable citizenship.

The police officers and the civil and administrative officers of our city are attacked. These attacks are published broadcast to the world. It is probably true that some infractions of the ordinances and laws have occurred. It is true that some of these now circulating and reviling and abusing would have done time. The fact is that we have one of the best cities and best governed cities in the state of Wisconsin. The fact is that the type of manhood and womanhood in the city of Janesville is far above the average in the cities of the state. The fact is that there is less violation of the law and less crime in the city of Janesville than in most of the cities of Wisconsin. The fact is that the citizens of other cities do not endeavor in every way possible to tear down and detract their city. It is true that some things in our city ought to be improved. It is true that stalls and wine rooms, if in existence in our saloons, should be abolished, removed and cleaned out. It is true that there is a legal method provided by law for accomplishing all desired and necessary results. If a police officer fails in his duty, a complaint may be made to the Fire and Police commission and if made it would receive due hearing in the regular and ordinary course of proceedings. If a business man or saloon keeper violates the law and if a complaint is filed in the proper court the guilty party would be brought before the court of justice. And if good citizens would proceed in the ordinary and legal way, all the good results desired, would be accomplished. It would be unnecessary to establish a regency without a Queen Regent but with a committee of fifteen as the guardian and thus publish to the world the alleged incompetency of the administrative officers of the city of Janesville. I say alleged because I do not agree with those who charge incompetency those who make the loudest charges are in some cases those who have been the biggest offenders and who failed in the performance of their civic duties.

Just start the boosters' bug instead of the knackers' microbe-working and our city will advance and progress. But knackers won't boost. They can't. There is being held here now an exhibit of Janesville-made goods, and there hasn't one out of ten of the knackers in the city of Janesville attended to give their moral or business support to the enterprise.

The citizens of Janesville need some mental repairs. They should cultivate the habit of boosting instead of knocking of helping to build up instead of tearing down, and the newspapers could aid much if they would in this apparently difficult job of boosting, help at least, in setting the people in a right mental attitude towards their city. I repeat Janesville is one of the best cities of its size in the northwest.

Respectfully,
J. J. CUNNINGHAM.

How many people question the person seeking contributions for orphanage or other charities, as to their identity. How many ask to see their credentials? There is no doubt numbers of legitimate requests, but there are also many fakers passing around at present seeking requests, usually small amounts, and as a matter of self protection ask them for some sort of identification, letters, etc. Don't allow yourselves to be bunked even for a 10 cent piece. There are too many local charities that need money and you know who they are and where your money goes when you pass it out.

Lake Region and rain or snow generally throughout the East. A ridge of high barometer has developed over the Plains, stretching from Western Ontario to New Mexico. It is attended by cooler weather, minima of 20 degrees and lower being reached in Minnesota last night.

TODAY'S EDGERTON NEWS

EDGERTON EASTERN STAR AT A BANQUET

Delightful Entertainment Enjoyed at Masonic Hall Tuesday Evening
—Other News.

Edgerton, Nov. 14.—The Edgerton Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, on Tuesday evening observed "Past Masters' night." At 6:30 o'clock a chicken pie supper was served in the Masonic hall, which was followed by a program arranged for the occasion. Musical numbers were rendered by Misses Edna Willson and Winifred Coon, a reading by Mrs. E. C. Hopkins and an impersonation by Mrs. A. T. Shearer. A laughable skit entitled "A Bachelor's Reverie" was given in which the past masters of the chapter were the leading characters.

Remains Brought Here:
The remains of Mrs. Harry Hains of Harvard, Ill., who died there yesterday, were brought here last night and taken to the farm home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cox, in Fulton township. She was 29 years of age and the cause of death is attributed to dropsy. Funeral arrangements are not known.

Edgerton News Notes:
Miss Edna Willson has returned from an extended trip in the east. Dr. Arthur Andersen of Rio Vista, arrived last night on a visit to his aged mother, Mrs. Henry Marsden, and other relatives.

David Condon of the vicinity of Newville, is moving his family and household effects to town and taking possession of their new residence in the northern part of the city.

Four trainloads of western sheep arrived here during the past few days to be cared for at the feeding station previous to shipment to the Chicago market.

A POLICE OFFICER'S STORY

In Storm and Cold He Protects the Sleeping City.

SERGEANT CROWLEY'S STORY.

A police officer must at all times be prepared for any emergency. He must be in perfect condition physically and he must refrain absolutely from the use of alcohol and narcotics in any form to keep himself keyed to meet the many and sudden demands made upon his strength, bravery and endurance.

In order that police officers may be at this high state of efficiency it is well for them and all others who must keep up their strength to know of the experience of one of the best examples of the vigilant policeman. Sergeant J. E. Crowley of the Lowell, Mass., police department, says: "For five years I was trying to find and it was not until I took Father John's Medicine that I obtained any relief for a cold and hard cough which had settled on my lungs. It cured me and I heartily recommend it."

Sergeant Crowley says he keeps a bottle of Father John's Medicine on hand. "It keeps me well and strong all the time. It is an excellent body builder."

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

World's Wealthiest Individuals:
It is quite impossible to say who are the eight richest men and women in the world. Some of the Indian princes are enormously wealthy, though the extent of their fortunes is not known. There are besides many wealthy families and individuals in Europe whose names are little known in this country, and about whose fortunes so little is reliably known as to make a comparison impossible.

Wealth of Nations:
So far as outside investments are concerned Great Britain is by far the wealthiest nation of the world. But there is no data which will enable us to decide the wealth of any people. The extent of investments, the incomes of governments, the extent of foreign trade, the produce of countries, would all require to be taken into consideration in arriving at conclusions.

Japanese Advancement.
An ancient Japanese proverb had it: "Never trust a woman, even if she has borne you seven children." The Japanese are discarding this proverb, owing to western influence.

His Gifted Relative.
"Your Uncle Seymour" was what they called a famous whip, Johnny Mrs. Lapelling said. "He never was as happy as when he was driving his ballyhoo coach all over the country."

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged. This is the quality of penetrating probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, all of wintergreen, thymol, salicylic acid, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription. We have sold other remedies for skin troubles but none that we can recommend as highly as this for we know that D.D.D. stops the itch at once. We can give you a trial-size bottle for 25 cents that will be enough to prove it. Of course, all other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute. But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee: If you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.

A DEEP CUT IN PIANOS

You Will Be Surprised At The Prices We Are Making During Our Removal Piano Sale

Some are selling a certain piano at $350 high grade; we are offering the same while this sale is on at $250; another high grade at $200, and it would be a bargain at $300. What are you thinking about, to let someone else get these pianos, while you are letting these bargains pass by unheeded.

Give the children a musical education. We give with every piano sold a special certificate of scholarship, good for two years with the Northwestern School of Music in Milwaukee, Wis.

Some are selling a certain piano at $350 high grade, we are offering the same while this sale is good for two years and is valued at $80.00, and if you took up this study with the Northwestern School of Music the terms would be $40.00 per year or $80.00 for two years. But in buying your piano of us you get this scholarship with your piano by paying the expenses of postage and mailing. We have customers right here in this city who are taking this special course and this is what they say (on a piano so far, I think the lessons are as good as being taught by a teacher at your side). This special scholarship is only given by us to more thoroughly advertise the North School of Music and to do this they give us the right to give one special scholarship with every piano we sell. We make no extra charge on the piano, but as we say it is done to advertise, and you get the scholarship when you purchase your piano from us. We will give you a square deal on every piano we sell, and our pianos are pianos of quality. Come and see them and prove it for yourself. We are going to move by Dec. 1st to 313 West Milwaukee, in part of the store occupied by J. J. Smith, the Jeweler. The question is this, are you going to purchase a piano before Christmas? If so, see our pianos and get out.

REMOVAL PIANO SALE PRICES:

One Music Cabinet at	$5.00	Piano Stools from	$2.00 to $3.00
One Small Stove and pipe	$3.00	Piano Polish, the best kind, bottle	25c

FREIGHT CAR THEFTS AN INDUSTRIAL PERIL

United States Commerce Board Warns
Railroads of Threatened Transportation Shortage.

"Nothing less than theft" is what the Interstate Commerce Commission in a warning to rail carriers and shippers, issued today, calls the practice of leaving freight cars open to be returned promptly empty cars they borrow from connecting lines. The commission believes the existing car shortage is a menace to our commerce and industry and declares that unless the situation is relieved without delay the country may experience a repetition of the distress of 1906-07, when inability to get coal, forced many industries to stop work. The statement follows in part:

"To the railroads and shippers of the United States: From all parts of the country reports are brought to us indicating that there has already begun a car shortage which promises to be more serious in the immediate future. It would be difficult to estimate the financial loss to the industries and commerce of this country should such a condition obtain for any length of time.

Would Halt All Industries.
"Without raw material or without coal industries must close; without lumber, cement and structural steel, building will be stopped; without distribution of the great body of our manufactures commerce will slacken and the people at large suffer serious embarrassment. Especially is there danger of distress arising out of an insufficient coal supply such as arose in certain parts of our country in the winter of 1906-07.

"The commission is receiving daily advices from industries, state institutions, coal merchants and private individuals that unless relief is had immediately great suffering will ensue.

Wholesale Theft of Cars.
"It appears that many of the roads which have adequately supplied themselves for the transportation of coal are unable to secure their equipment from connecting lines, it having been appropriated by those lines and put to other uses. One railroad reports that out of 80,000 cars owned by that line it now has only 2,800 available on its line and has been forced to place an embargo against coal going off its lines in its cars.

"The per diem charge under common agreement for the use of foreign equipment seems inadequate to secure its return at a time when there is a live demand for cars. Such procedure on the part of the railroads is nothing less than theft. The carriers by agreement have provided rules under which when carried out in good faith, cars may promptly be returned to the home line. Departure from these rules is an appropriation of property which is morally unjustifiable.

Commission Seeks Remedy.
"The power of the commission is limited in such a case to the promulgation of rules which will insure fair play between the carriers and make possible adequate service to the shippers. The duty of framing such rules rests primarily upon the carriers themselves and the commission has said that unless such rules were made it would undertake the task. Such remedy, however, would be entirely inadequate to the imperative needs of the present situation and in view of the condition which obtains we deem it to the public interest to make the following suggestions to the railroads of the country:

"1. That a higher per diem rate shall be made to apply for the use of cars as between the carriers.

"2. That an inspection service should be at once instituted which shall report to this commission violations of the rules existing which are intended to secure the return of equipment to the home line.

Faster Service Asked.
"3. That operating officials be instructed to make fuller use of locomotives and cars by increasing the speed of freight trains. An average movement of less than twenty-five miles per car per day is not adequate to the needs of times such as this. An increased speed of movement is tantamount to an increase in equipment."

Keeping Water Cold.
If you are in the habit of taking a pitcher of cold water to your room on retiring, try this: Procure a square pasteboard box (with lid), sufficiently large to hold your pitcher, and give it two or three coats of varnish on the outside, allowing each coat to dry thoroughly. Place your pitcher of water in this box on retiring, putting the lid on tightly, and you are sure of having cold drinking water any hour of the night.

Loss to Antiquarians.
One of the huge stones of the Avenbury Druidical circle, which is much larger and older than Stonehenge, has fallen, owing, doubtless, to the effects of weather—heavy rains following a dry season. Aubrey, who acted as guide to Charles II., on a visit to this district in 1663, declared that Avenbury as far surpassed Stonehenge as a cathedral does a parish church.—London Mail.

At The Theatre

"FRECKLES"

An attraction which should cause more than usual desire to see a play is Nell Twomey's dramatization of Gene Stratton-Porter's widely read story "Freckles," which will be the attraction at the Myers theatre next Monday, Nov. 18. When it is considered that this fascinating story of Indiana's great swamp country, "The Limberlost," has had more than a million readers, there is no wonder that the drama is causing far more than the ordinary attraction. Where a book contains the vital requisites for dramatization, the play is always of more interest than the story because the imagination is not taxed and the characters are living, breathing ones.

Those who have read "Freckles" will understand the possibilities for a drama far more than ordinary strength and action, and environment. There is unlimited scope for the scene painter, the electrician and the stage mechanic, and in these features the production is said to be of surpassing magnificence. A guarantee of the worth of this play is the fact that it has been staged by A. D. Delemeter, who has some notable successes to his credit, and who never does anything by halves. There are hundreds of thousands of theatre-goers who will remember his "Beverly Graustark," an other production which has been successful.

NELL TWOMEY'S DRAMATIZATION OF
THE LEMBERT
AND THE HARVEST

The play is a true reflection of the distress, the dangers and sufferings that beset the Southern cause towards the end of the great struggle of the North and South and a vivid picture of the days when more than before old patriots and braver young men were fighting for the cause of three. Father Mother and little Virgie, concern the story upon which "The Little Rebel" is built.

Violent Savoy plays the title role and is said to be the brightest and prettiest child upon the American stage.

"COBURN PLAYERS."
"Not merely impressive, but grimly powerful" is the way a critic has characterized his impression of the presentation of Macbeth by the Coburn Players. He later says, in the same article, "If the other offerings by the Coburn Players during the remainder of the week, reach the plane of tragic effectiveness scored last evening in that austere drama of remorse, it will mean a deep satisfaction to theatre patrons who have a taste for classic acting."

These are some of the salient points that have been mentioned as giving distinction to the Coburn Players' production of Macbeth.

A gruesome wizardry in the witch scenes seldom experienced by an audience.

Earnestness characterizing the work of every player in the cast. The banquet scene well handled and rich in picturesque quality and color.

Mrs. Coburn's portrayal of Lady Macbeth displays not merely a firm intellectual grasp of the character but has the much rarer attribute of that inspiration.

Mr. Coburn's rendition of Macbeth is full of virility and grasp of the psychology of the part which he realizes to the fullest extent.

The date of the Coburn Players' appearance at the Myers theatre, is Saturday Nov. 30 matinee and evening and "Othello" the play.

THOMAS ORCHESTRA.
The Theodore Thomas Orchestra at Myers theatre Monday November 25.

The orchestra is worthy of its conductor. It is a band of the first rank. The orchestra keeps its old heritage from Theodore Thomas of instant precision. There was never a falter, never a ragged edge in its playing. Yet this precision has not been dry-polished into an unyielding mechanism.

The tone that it produces as a body is rich, warm, sonorous, never heavy, never coarse, never exaggerated for the mere sake of a mighty din. The brasses, in particular, enrich it; the horns are most beautifully played; the bassoons have an exceeding fineness; flutes, oboes and clarinets never lose their characteristic voice; the strings are bright and warm. Nowhere does Mr. Stock lose the tone of his band; yet always he keeps it eloquent. It is as though the men were sharers with him and with the composer, out of their own imaginations and emotions, in the utterance of the music.

Each of the four pieces set these virtues of Mr. Stock in vivid and impressive array. From beginning to end of "Don Juan" the orchestra achieved all of Strauss' splendor, passion and excitement. Not a detail of the composer's delicate and intricate scheme missed its just place, purpose, voice; yet never once were the large musical design, the unflagging musical progress of the whole, clouded or obscured. The eloquence when it is most full, most fine. The glow of tone matched the glow of passion.

The playing of the sobber symphony of Brahms was no whit less revealing or less impressive. The tonal lightness, the rhythmic grace of the scherzo, fascinated the ear and the fancy; and Mr. Stock piled high and passionately its mounting sonorities of tone. To the slow movement of melody that Brahms loved. The first movement glowed with chromatic tints. The exposition recalled Mr. Gerick; the tonal magnificence, the imaginative ardor, were of Dr. Muck.—Boston Transcript, December 13, 1911.

"THE LITTLE REBEL."
A. H. Woods will present for the first time in this city at Myers theatre Wednesday, Nov. 20th, Marshall Farum, Edward Peppes, great play of the Civil War "The Little Rebel."

Mr. Farum is the youngest brother of Rudin and William and member of the noted family of actors.

"The Little Rebel" will be presented here the same as produced at Chicago with complete production and exceptional cast.

SENATOR IS REVISING
HIS AUTOBIOGRAPHY

La Follette to Remain in Madison
Until Opening of Session of Congress—Reticent as to Plans

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 14.—Senator La Follette intends to remain in Madison until the opening of the next session of congress about Dec. 5. He has declined to make any engagements on the lecture platform and is devoting himself to a revision of his autobiography, final proofs of which have been received from the printer. Prominent political leaders are being entertained almost daily at the senator's home, but secrecy about his political plans is observed. It is believed the senator is planning to reorganize the republican party in the nation upon lines more nearly in accordance with his well known principles and policies.

Committee of American Prison Association Reports Against Contract System of Labor For Convicts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 14.—The contract system of prison labor was condemned in the report of the committee on prison labor presented today at the congress of the American Prison Association in annual session here. The commission, however, recommends the system when no other means of employment could be provided believing it preferable to idleness. The employment of prisoners, the report maintained, should be directed entirely by the state and the products of this labor should be disposed of by the state.

SURVEYING IN ARCTIC REGIONS NO JOB FOR MAN IN HURRY, SAYS EXPLORER

Dr. R. M. Anderson and Ernest De Koven Leffingwell.

San Francisco. — The world has heard much of the recent successful arctic expedition of Stefansson and Anderson, which resulted in the discovery of tribes of blond Eskimos in the far north. When Anderson returned to San Francisco the first of November he was surrounded by a crowd of newspaper reporters who were eager to get his story.

There was another arctic explorer on the same ship that brought Anderson back to America whose exploits in the polar regions were quite as worthy of praise but who received little newspaper attention. The explorer's name is Leffingwell and he hails from Pasadena.

During the last eleven years Leffingwell has spent considerable time on the north coast of Alaska. He has made a survey, with soundings of about 150 miles of this coast. To the whaler and the ever-increasing number of trading vessels this survey will be of incalculable value. More recently he has devoted himself to a series of astronomical observations and to the exploration of half a dozen geological horizons, from each of which he has brought home fossils. Leffingwell says that surveying in parts of the instruments with bare fingers and with bare fingers it had to be done. I had all the metal parts of my instruments covered with fiber. I wore gloves that left only the tips of thumb and forefinger exposed, and as a further protection against cold even wrapped the pencil with which I made my notes in cloth. In that air the hand will freeze stiff in one minute, and as I had to work an hour at a time I found all these precautions necessary.

Dr. Anderson, who accompanied Stefansson, has many interesting things to say about the trip the two made to the far north. Perhaps the most interesting feature of their trip was the discovery of the blond Eskimo tribes.

"To call them blond Eskimos," said Doctor Anderson, "is rather an exaggeration. Some of the men had brown beards and brown mustaches, and I saw some women with rosy cheeks. There was an entire absence of the flat noses so characteristic of the Eskimos. Their features were all of an angline type. It is possible that they are the descendants of the survivors of the Franklin expedition, of which 105 men in two ships were never accounted for. The natives however have no traditions, as far as we could learn, that would confirm or even suggest this theory."

FORMER WHITE SOX PLAYER WAS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton Junction, Nov. 14.—While out hunting near here on Sunday, Willis Cole, formerly outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, American league team, was slightly wounded about the neck and back by shot from the gun of a hunter. Forty shots were picked out of his body by a physician, although his wounds were not so severe but that he was able to be around afterward. It is said that while Mr. Cole was bending over, a near-sighted hunter mistook him for a rabbit.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

TOO MUCH PESSIMISM.
A YOUNG girl bred in a small, suburban village, recently married a man from a large city and came to his home to live.

Of course, there were many things in the new environment which surprised and interested her, and it was a pleasure to hear her naive comments, but the one comment which interested me far above all the others was this: "The women that I have met here are always talking about how to keep one's husband faithful, as if that were the chief problem a woman had to worry about. Why, in my home a woman's chief problems were finances and children and making a comfortable home, and things like that. The women in our town were true to their husbands and expected as much of them. There were one or two men that people said went around with other women, but that was considered a terrible disgrace. We never expected it to happen right in our own families the way you do here."

Seems to me that the little country mouse has struck a note that needed to be sounded. In the last ten or fifteen years women's eyes have been opened; they have ceased to be the blind and trusting wives, mothers and sisters they used to be. And that I think, is well. But is it not possible that some of us have opened our eyes altogether too wide and are seeing a much more gloomy state of affairs than really exists?

A young married woman asserted to me that she did not believe that more than 25 per cent of married men were faithful to their wives.

What nonsense! There may be so-called upper class of society in which that is true, but it most emphatically is not any where near true of the backbone of the country, the people you and I know.

To hold one's husband's romantic love, to keep him always a sweetheart, that is indeed a problem and one that few women are capable of solving.

But to keep a husband faithful! I don't think that's a problem that the average woman—or should I say the wife of the average man—needs to worry about, unless she gets into the I've-got-him-and-so-it-doesn't-matter-how-I-dress-and-act attitude.

To be sure, married life isn't all on the heights, isn't all smooth sailing, but then neither is any condition of life.

When married people aren't happy they are likely to think it is because they are married. It's more apt to be just because they are themselves and because they are living in an ordinary old world, where there is always more or less to trouble and annoy. Half the time when we think our problem is "How to be happy though married," it's simply "How to be happy though human."

Let's not make the mistake of being cynical and pessimistic about marriage and the sex relations, just because we have acquired a little knowledge. It really doesn't pay.

SOME POTATO DISHES.

A potato salad that is not very common is the following: Dice six cold boiled potatoes, add the chopped whites of three hard cooked eggs; rub the yolks of the eggs smooth with a dash or two of mustard, and add a cup of sour cream. Season with salt and cayenne and pour the dressing over the potatoes. Let the potatoes stand in the dressing some time before serving.

Sweet Potato Pudding.—This is a West Indian recipe and makes a nice hot luncheon dish. Grate peeled sweet potatoes to the amount of two cups, add a cup of ripe bananas mashed, a cup of brown sugar, three cups of water, a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of ginger and mixed spices, a dash of salt. Mix well and spread about two inches deep in a well-buttered pie dish and bake for an hour and a half.

Savory Potatoes.—Cut two small pieces of bacon into small pieces, and place them in the bottom of a baking dish; slice three potatoes and half an onion over the bacon. Add two more pepper and salt, then slice in two more slices of bacon, cut fine, season with potatoes; add another slice of bacon, season again and cover with milk. Cover the dish and bake for half an hour, then remove the cover and bake until the potatoes are soft and the top is brown.

Potato With Nuts.—Chop a cupful of nuts and put them in a basin; add a cupful of hot mashed potatoes, a little salt and pepper, two eggs well beaten, a half cup of bread crumbs and milk enough to make a mixture to roll. Roll in crumbs, dot a few pieces of butter over the top. Add milk to the pan and bake until thoroughly hot. Thicken with milk and serve poured around the loaf.

Potato Doughnuts.—Cream three tablespoonfuls of butter, softened; add three-fourths of a cup of sugar, the yolks of three eggs and the white of one, one cup of freshly mashed potatoes and a fourth of a cup of milk, two and a half cups of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoon of ground mace and a fourth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg. Add the flour gradually; more if needed. Roll all the doughnuts before commencing to fry.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What is good to clean a raincoat? (2)—Is it wrong for a girl of 16 to have gentlemen friends call and take her out occasionally?

ANSWERS: (1)—Warm water (not cold) a good white soap and a nail brush. Lay coat on table and scrub. Rinse by dipping in tub of clear water, then hang out, without wringing to drip dry. (2)—If her mother approves, I see no objection.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 19 and have been going with a young lady about two months. What would be a suitable birthday present?

C. M. L.
Flowers, candy and books are the only suitable presents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How can one reduce the size and thickness of the lips? (2)—How to get a white complexion? (3)—How to make the pores of the face smaller? A. E. R.

(1)—There is no way to reduce the size of the mouth or thickness of lips. Give the mouth a pleasant expression and its size won't be noticed. Stop biting the lips and moisten them with a little benzoin occasionally. (2)—A white complexion is no longer fashionable. The skin should glow with health. Either lemon juice or buttermilk will whiten somewhat. (3)—Dab the face with a little pure alcohol two or three times a day.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Is 140 pounds too great a weight for a girl 5 ft. 3 or 4 inches tall? (2)—What is the proper weight? (3)—How can one reduce about three pounds a week?

BETTY.
(1)—Yes. (2)—About 130 lbs. for your height. (3)—Eat less, exercise more. Before breakfast each morning take the juice of a lemon in a glass of water. This will reduce you somewhat if you can conquer your appetite. Do not eat sweets, fats or starchy foods, as they all make fat.

The True Element of Growth

WE are so accustomed to look upon physical growth as largely a matter of time that we are apt to consider mental and spiritual progress as likewise dependent upon the passing of the year. We just naturally think that we must develop in mind and spirit as we grow older that the one must inevitably follow as the consequence of the other.

But if you stop to think a moment, don't you know both men and women who haven't grown an eighth of an inch mentally or spiritually in the last ten or twenty years? They go about their daily tasks in the office or the home, perhaps perform them most satisfactorily. The man may be a good business man, careful, methodical, conservative. She may be a fine housekeeper. Her house may be immaculate and run on a fine system—the washing and ironing done on Mondays and Tuesdays, the sweeping on its particular day, the left-overs carefully utilized, the stockings darned. You can't put your finger on a single spot in the house that shows carelessness or lack of thrift. Yet mentally she hasn't an opinion beyond that which she held ten years ago; spiritually, her vision is no broader than it was when, as a young girl, she went to Sunday School.

The years have passed, but she has not grown.

So it isn't time that is the true element of growth in these matters. Our physical nature that needs time for growth has to do with the material. But our mental and spiritual nature is of quite another realm, and its growth depends upon the things of this other world.

For the true element of growth, mentally and spiritually, is the recognition of the need. It is an inner cause, not an outer; it belongs to the immaterial world, not the material.

The passing of the years may bring some slight progress due to contact with others and unconscious assimilation of their ideas. But this is scarcely true growth, and it is very slight. Growth that is real and of moment can only come from a recognition by us of a need.

We must recognize we are ignorant before any desire will awaken in us for knowledge. The business woman must realize that there is much she needs to know in her work before she will begin to make herself more proficient. The mother must recognize her lack of knowledge of child-training before she will have any desire to become acquainted with the wealth of knowledge in this important field. The housekeeper must realize that her methods are wasteful and antiquated, before she will desire to get in touch with up-to-date ways.

And in the realms of the spirit this is equally true. If we do not realize that we are living spiritually a narrow life; if we do not recognize that we have shut ourselves, by dogma or creed or convention, into a little space in which there is no room for development, we never will grow beyond these confines.

And thus we will miss much joy in life. For there would be little purpose in living if we were merely to go out of the world the same as when we came in, except for such material experiences as eating and sleeping and working. Mental and spiritual growth is as necessary as physical. And although we can leave the physical to the years to accomplish, we need to look inward to our individual needs to bring about the other.

So, it is worth while, is it not, to take a little time to study what our spirit needs, that the germ of growth may be awakened to life.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

"We never eat breakfast," said a friend of mine one day to me. "Just a clear cup of coffee which Mr. A. drinks while shaving, and as I dress I have mine." "I have a very simple breakfast," I replied. "Grape-fruit or a shredded wheat biscuit with fruit juice or cream and sometimes a teaspoonful of chopped nuts over it, and occasionally a cup of coffee."

But we hear many say: "I eat no breakfast whatever," and others, "I must have a hearty breakfast." So there we are, with a variety of tastes for sure, particularly if we were all part of the same family. There is no meal more difficult in catering to the tastes and whims of a family than breakfast. We have all known in some time of our life the man or woman to whom we were afraid to speak until they had their breakfast. What nonsense! If we had lived, eaten and worked right the day before, and had a reasonable amount of sleep, we should get up as a normal baby who wakens in the morning, perfectly happy and good-natured. It is an absolutely absurd to spoil the most beautiful part of the day being grouchy. Besides, it may help to make things go wrong the rest of the entire day.

The desire for food is individual and is largely governed by the occupation one is engaged in.

On rising in the morning take at least ten good, deep breaths near an open window. Inhale and exhale. Take a quick, tepid bath (about three minutes) or a dry rub with a coarse bath towel. Now you will begin to feel alive. While dressing drink at least half a pint of water, hot or cold; sip at first, do not gulp.

To Dress a Chicken.
After you have your chicken picked and ready to clean, roll a paper up in a tight, long roll, light and you will find it easy to singe. Then have lukewarm water to clean it in; never take cold water, for it sets the pin feathers and they are hard to get out.

Next, rub it all over with common baking soda and you will find the toughest, yellowest skin gets tender and white and easy to clean.

Household Economy
How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add 35 pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you will have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quinine and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this form.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated but never successfully.

Guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

No Excuse For Pimples

Skin Cleared in a Short Time by Stuart's Calcium Waters, the Famous Blood Purifier.

Pimples, blotches, skin eruptions of all kinds, are simply the impurities in the blood coming to the surface. All the external treatment in the world won't do a particle of good unless you purify the blood. And there's nothing so humiliating as a face that's all "broken out" and spotted.

Stuart's Calcium Waters will clear the most obstinate complexion, because they go right into the blood and remove the cause of the trouble. The blood is cleansed of all impurities and foreign substances and these are quickly eliminated from the system. You'll notice a wonderful change in a few days. You will hardly know yourself at a week.

And Stuart's Calcium Waters are absolutely harmless to any one. Their ingredients are just what a physician prescribes in most cases of skin eruptions and poor blood. These waters are put up in concentrated form, which makes them act quickly and thoroughly.

Begin taking Stuart's Calcium Waters today and then look at yourself in the mirror in a few days, and find all those awful pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, liver spots, rash, eczema and that muddy complexion rapidly disappearing and your face cleared like the petals of a flower.

You can easily test Stuart's Calcium Waters for yourself. You can get the regular-sized package for 50c at any drug store. Advertisement.

Hands bleeding, cracked, itching

FOSTER FORECASTS WEATHER CHANGES

Predicts Sudden Changes of Temperature First Part of Next Week With Warm and Cool Waves.

Copyrighted 1912 by W. T. Foster. Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent Nov. 10 to 15. Warm wave 9 to 15, cool wave 12 to 16. Snows north and cold rains south are expected from this disturbance but the precipitation will generally be light. The week centering on Nov. 15 will be the coldest of the month and the following weeks will be progressively warmer end of month.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Nov. 15, cross Pacific slope by close of 16, great central valleys 17 to 19, eastern sections 20. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 15, great central valleys 17 eastern sections 19. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Nov. 18, great central valleys 20, eastern sections 20.

The week of this disturbance will average colder than usual and the precipitation will be about or less than usual. Some snows in northern sections and some cold rains in the south. The intensities of the weather features will gain force as they reach eastern sections.

Parts of last winter were very cold and the deep snows greatly interfered with traffic on railroads and highways. Inquiries are coming in asking whether the coming winter will be similar. We answer no. Some fierce storms may be expected but we see no indications of the deep snows.

As an average of the states and Canada the winter of 1912-13 is expected to be rather moderate. At most it will not be more severe than the average of winters.

Since August 10 our full force has been reviewing and perfecting our system of forecasting. We are adding records of records of those heretofore used in the calculations and our purpose is to divide the territory of the states and Canada into smaller sections in order to more thoroughly localize all forecasts and more in detail forecast the time in each month when the rains and snows may be expected. On account of this extensive work our calculations for 1913 will not be completed before the first part of December.

One of the greatest successes ever achieved in weather forecasting was made through these bulletins for the period within seven days of Oct. 11. The immense destruction of life and property in the East Indies, including parts of the Philippines, the great tropical hurricane that, circling around Cuba and struck the coast of Texas, wrecking many vessels, the great storms on the lakes and the great northwestern cold wave were fully and repeatedly covered in the forecasts from 10 to 50 days in advance. With such success as this to our credit, based as they are on the easy planetary locations, it is not full time that the priests of the orthodox science should take a look through our telescope.

When Galileo, the Columbus of progressive science, asked the orthodox scientists to take a look through his machine at the moons of Jupiter they said "no! The devil is in that telescope."

Our government paid scientists are trying to measure the changes in the sun's heat when a school boy should know the sun sends out force, not heat, and that the forces are caused to vary by the changing positions of the planets.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

THE BACKBONE. (By Howard L. Rann.)

THE backbone is a long, rigid piece of furniture suspended immediately below the collar button. It is liberally ornamented with bristles and back talk, and never gives up while there is any breath left in the owner.

The rarest variety is the political backbone, which goes into hiding during a campaign and has to be produced with impudent questions from the back seat. Nearly all politicians leave their backbones in Washington just prior to election, so that they will not have to stand where they tell on any thing but the little old red schoolhouse on the hill.

The female backbone is a determined species which is used to shoo persistent agents off the front porch. It is also used to trim chesty husbands down to their proper size. A little, 110-pound woman who is equipped with a trip-hammer backbone can cause a large, beefy husband to lock himself in the pantry and apologize profusely through the keyhole.

The male backbone is composed of various ingredients, ranging from Portland cement to a tow string. Nearly all of the backbones found in the band wagon and John Ford procession consist of a genital mixture of relative and indecision. If there were more backbones which refused to lean on the ward healer on election day, there would be fewer rock-rotted jokes in the halls of Congress.

The American backbone is a resolute, two-fisted variety which has caused everybody who attempted to step on its tail to retire to the hospital for repairs. At the sight of the Stars and Stripes this backbone rises up in patriotic music, impromptu orations and a tingling sensation up and down the spine. It is the greatest backbone ever invented, and promises to wave for quite a few aeons.

Some backbones have the habit of caving in under ridicule and spilling good resolutions along the pathway of life, while others set their jaws and hang on in the face of sneers and discouragement. This is the kind which enables a man to look himself in the face without flinching.

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM

AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROCKS"

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The Hesitation of the Marquis.

The day of my lady's riding party dawned; in the east a tender flame burned, and, vanishing, left the heavens an unbroken blue. Shoreward the mists rolled up, until only in the neighborhood of the forts did the white, soft vapor linger. On the Mount itself sunshine held sway; it radiated from the fortifications, "casars of the rock," and gleamed on the church, "stars of its majesty." It warmed a cold palace of marble; looked in at its windows, and threw bold shafts to lighten dark nooks and corners.

But my lady, mistress of the Mount, seemed not to feel its beneficent touch; standing in the full glow and looking from her casement she shivered a little. Already she was dressed, and her habit of dark green, fitting close, served to accentuate the whiteness of her cheek which general absence of color, in turn, made the more manifest; certain dark lines beneath the restless, bright eyes.

"Your Ladyship!" After knocking in vain, Marie had entered the room and set down the small tray she carried. "There is something your Ladyship ought to know!" with an air of excitement.

The Governor's daughter half turned. "What now, Marie?" she said sharply.

"It's about Nanette!" My lady made a quick movement of annoyance, impatience. "I did not tell your Ladyship, but I was averse to having her remain here. Your Ladyship does not understand, of course, and—"

"Do understand," said my lady, unexpectedly. "And you need not explain. I overheard you talking with her that night of the banquet!"

"Your Ladyship!" started.

"And I heard you speak of her father, Pierre Laroche, friend of the Black Seigneur?"

"And engaged her—after that!"

"Why not? I could watch—and I have! But you were wrong, Marie." My lady's manner was feverish. "Your suspicions were ridiculous. There has been nothing—nothing! And day after tomorrow is the wedding celebration, and the next day, he, the Black Seigneur—" She broke off abruptly.

Had Marie been less wrought up, less excited, less concerned with the information she had to impart, she could not have failed to notice the odd break in her young mistress's voice; something unusual, almost akin to despair, in her manner. As it was, that which weighed on the old nurse's mind precluded close observation of the other.

"But something has happened, my Lady!" the woman half stammered.

"Comment!" The girl turned to her sharply. "What? Explain, Marie!"

Disconnectedly, the woman launched into a narration of the events of the night before; my lady listened closely, with an interest and excitement she strove to conceal, half turning so that the other saw no longer her face.

"And here," ended Marie, extending a crumpled fragment of paper, "is a piece of the note she dropped on the beach. The man tore it up, but in thrusting the bits of paper into his pocket this fell out, and, after he walked away, I picked it up myself from the sand. I can't read, as your Ladyship knows, and there isn't much on it—only a word or two! But it may tell something."

My lady's face was now composed; the hand she extended, steady; for several moments she regarded the fragment.

"What does it say?" asked the woman anxiously. "Is it—is it important?"

Her mistress did not at once answer; twisting the bit of paper in her fingers, stood as if in thought, and the old nurse repeated her question.

"This note might have been intended for some admirer!" said, at length, the Governor's daughter slowly.

"He looked more like an old privateersman!" murmured the woman. "And there may be some plot—some plan!"

"Privateersman!" The girl's manner underwent a change; she shrugged her shoulders. "What could they hope to do at the Mount! You are imaginative, Marie!" lightly. "Nanette is good-looking, and what little she here would seem to signify a rendezvous. There may be no great harm in that."

"I am sorry, my Lady, to seem to think ill of my own kin," muttered the woman dejectedly, "but—"

"Think no more of it! You have done your duty. Now leave the matter to me, and—thank you, Marie!"

When, however, the old nurse had gone, all pretense of lightness faded from the face of the Governor's daughter, and, opening the bit of paper, once more she scrutinized it swiftly, intently.

"Tomorrow—Monastery St. Renu—" she read. "Yes; it must mean St. Renu—where we are going. And where Beppo knew we were going! Beppo, she went down on the beach with!" Again she studied the fragment, striving to make out a word that had been blotted and was almost illegible. She frowned as she endeavored to decipher it. "Lady E." She gave an exclamation. "That refers, of course, to—But why?" She kept asking herself the question. "Why?" she repeated, when suddenly the brown eyes widened—changed; a new light shone in their depths. "It must be they intend to—what else?"

The sound of horns—signal for the party to gather—broke upon the air, and, nervously crushing in her palm the piece of the message, she stepped to the table, to the unattended breakfast. Like one in a dream, who yet feels the need for haste, she poured out the coffee; with unsteady hand raised the cup and drank; started to serve herself again; as if forgetful of the impulse, paused.

"And I?" she said with deeper breath. "To ride to the ambush they have so cleverly planned? Allow myself to be taken prisoner by these desperate men? No; no; I could not! And yet—" A trampling of horses' hoofs in the court below interrupted. "They are ready to start!" Under-

The Sound of Horns—

tainly she lifted her head; looked around her; then mechanically stepped forward and left the room.

A scene of animation greeted her in the court, alive with lords and ladies, for the most part already in the saddle and waiting.

"Hail to Diana, who will lead us in the forests!"

"Fair nymph, let us away!" and the Marquis extended his hand.

With a seemingly merry nod she acknowledged their greetings; put out a foot, and lightly sprang to her place on the back of the nervous thoroughbred. But ere giving the signal to start, the girl's glance swung around to a window opposite, where stood an austere figure, imperturbably looking down to watch them ride off.

"Au revoir, mon pere!" Her voice rose with an odd, unusual thrill. "Au revoir!" she repeated, when a faintness in her eyes suddenly blurred the sight of him, and she tightened the reins. Yet hesitating to go, her gaze cleared, and swerving, was abruptly arrested by another and more interested spectator, who, partly concealed by flowers and plants, peered with anxious expectancy from her own balcony. As Nanette's eyes met those of the Governor's daughter, they wavered half guiltily; suddenly became steady, held by something—a flash of impelling intelligence in the other's gaze. A moment or two, my lady continued to regard the girl; then touching her horse, wheeled sharply, and set a pace downward not easy to follow.

At the base of the Mount they were met by a numerous guard bright in holiday trappings, and, under the care of the commandant, with flourish of horse, the party swept gaily from sands to shore.

"A gallant company, Monsieur le Commandant!" observed the Marquis to the officer in charge, as they reached the green line at the yellow basin's edge. "Now if we were to meet an enemy—"

"He would find us prepared, my Lord!" the officer declared.

"True!" And the nobleman complacently touched the jeweled hilt of his own blade, accompanying the action with a tender glance at the Lady Elise.

She, however, a little ahead, appeared not to hear; spoke suddenly to her horse, and, as they swung from the sword, started at a brisk gallop down the road. Laughing, the others came after, lords and ladies first, behind, with tumult and clatter, the commandant and his men. As they advanced, on either side the way thick trunks of moss-grown monarchs uplifted their gnarled and hoary branches, to meet overhead; through leafy interstices bright flashes of sunlight shot downward; danced on fine garments and accoutrements, and then whisked swiftly away. In dim recesses finches and sparrows sang; beyond, murmured streams and rivulets, while at the feet of the riders, gay restless flowers nodded, as if in accompaniment to the glad music of the morn.

"Small wonder his Excellency should have desired to add this fair principality to his own!" muttered the Marquis, looking around. "Of the seven forests of Brittany, none will compare with this, the Desaurac woods. What think you, Elise?" spurring his horse near his betrothed's. "Are you not taken by its beauties?"

She looked at him with a start; since leaving the sands she had not spoken, and now, tugging at the reins, only said abruptly: "My saddle! I believe it is loose."

"Loose!" repeated the nobleman. "Careless lackeys! Let us see!" And grasping the bridle of her horse, pulled in his own, and drew both animals to a standstill at the side of the road.

As he dismounted to examine straps and fastenings, the others dashed up; my lady lightly motioned them on. "We'll soon overtake you! Don't wait!" Unquestioning, they obeyed; though the commandant, to whom a few moments later she delivered a similar injunction, brought his men to a halt and proffered his services. Whereupon the Marquis repeated the girl's words more sharply; reddening, the officer wheeled and started to ride on.

"I can't find anything wrong here!" Puzzled, the Marquis straightened.

But her eyes were directed ahead and she pointed with her whip to a break in the woody barrier to the right—a path that, springing from the roadside, seemed to plunge into the very heart of the labyrinth.

"Look! the short cut!—that would bring us half an hour before them to the ruins! Let us take it!"

A light seemed suddenly to break on her companion, and he sprang lightly to his saddle. "As my Lady wills!" gallantly.

"Then call to the commandant, and tell him we'll meet them there!"

The Marquis obeyed, and, without awaiting answer, or demur from the officer in charge of the guard, the girl flicked her horse and sent him over a low bush into the narrow way.

Fairly in the path, she rode fast, and pressing hard behind, my lord soon found reason for doubt as to the advisability of that route; and a suspicion of regret at his own assent to the departure from the main thoroughfare. As their surroundings grew wilder and the slender green figure flitted more and more recklessly before him, he even ventured to voice his misgivings—advised greater care. A shake of the fair head was all he received for answer and, regardless of the increasing roughness of the way, she continued to sweep on, now uphill, then down, avoiding by a quick turn one obstacle here, leaping another there! From a black ambush, a branch like the arm of a Titan reached out to seize, but adroitly she swayed from its grasp and only the twigs and leaves touched lightly the bent figure.

My lord, however, they struck sharply, and at the sudden smart and a quick realization of falling behind, frowningly he drove his horse harder. The tele-tele he had naturally expected from her request to pursue the lonelier way promised now not to materialize; the idea that she was feeling, he pursuing, possessed him. The forest, a tangle of shrubs and strange creepers, was the scene of the lady's, she, a sprite of the greenwood, danced illusively through the maze. At length when my lord had begun to grow weary of vainly endeavoring to overtake her, fate favored his efforts; brought to a standstill, at the edge of a torrent, the object of his pursuit.

"Are you mad, Elise?" A shadow on his brow, the Marquis rode down. She made no reply; regarded only the water.

"I hope it is not in your mind to attempt to cross," he went on, a shade of petulance in his accents.

She urged her horse forward; it stopped.

"Elise! I beg of you! It is dangerous; better go back, and around!"

But the girl set her red lips, raised her whip, and brought it down hard. The animal sprang into the foam; breasting the current, it slipped once or twice, recovered, and, after an effort, managed to reach the bank opposite. My Lord—less blithely than he had first embarked on the adventure—followed; the cold waters surged around, and he almost expected to be swept away. At length, however, chilled by the icy touch of the torrent and somewhat more out of humor, he found himself on the other side. Near the top of the bank, where the Governor's daughter had now the grace to await him, he rejoined her, disapproval on his face, reproach in his eyes. Yet still did the girl remain unconscious of her lover's wounded sensibilities; her own eyes, like stars beneath the flurry of hair, were turned, not to the young man, but away, toward a gaunt-looking ruin that had suddenly uplifted itself, as if by magic, through a rift in the forest. But a few hundred yards distant, the black crumbling walls bristled with rough, jagged edges—big, broken teeth that snarled at the rim of the ever-young wood. The very brightness of the day seemed only to emphasize the ominous aspect of the place; to reveal more plainly the solitary character of its wildness.

Origin of "Blackguard."

Blackguard is said to come from a nickname applied to a group of boys always on hand to black the boots of the horse guards who paraded at St. James park, London, although Webster gives its probable origin as coming from the scullions, smutted from handling kitchen utensils. It now means a person of low character, especially one who indulges in scurrilous or abusive language.

Lusty Cheese His Undoing.

Had it not been for a fine, large, ripe gorgonzola cheese, Antonio Skalla, a Naples stowaway, would have reached New York in safety on his third attempt. He stowed himself too near the cheese on the steamer Saxonia, and long before the liner arrived Antonio decided that death in any form was preferable to suffocation by gorgonzola. So he gave himself up.

Girls

Read About These Three Girls. How Sick They Were and How Their Health Was Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sick for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored my health. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecelia M. Bauer, 1101 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

A SCHOOL TEACHER'S GRATITUDE:

Geneva, Iowa—"I have been teaching school for some years and I have neglected my health because I was too busy with my work to attend to myself properly. I suffered greatly every month and was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. I wrote to you about my condition and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Purifier as you recommended. These remedies have done wonders for me and I can highly and widely recommend them to every suffering woman."—Miss Minnie Shaver, R. F. D. No. 1, Geneva, Iowa, c/o Sam Erickson.

A COLORADO GIRL'S CASE:

Montrose, Col.—"I was troubled very much with irregular periods. Sometimes two months would elapse. I suffered severe headache, was weak and nervous, could eat scarcely anything. I took both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and the result was wonderful. I feel like another person. I think your remedies are the best on earth and cannot express my thankfulness to you for what they have done to me. I help my neighbors when they are sick, and I shall always recommend your medicines."—Miss Ella McCandless, Montrose, Col.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there are lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 14, 1872.—Fire Last Night: The dwelling house on the Wilcox-Bates farm, some three miles south of the city, was destroyed by fire at an early hour last evening, the disaster being caused by some defect in the chimney. The building was occupied by Mr. Davey and another tenant. A large portion of its contents was destroyed. The house was insured for twelve hundred dollars, within a few hundred dollars of its value. The light from the burning building, reflected upon the clouds, caused an alarm to be sounded in the city and the fire department turned out with a speed which was a decided improvement on some of their previous efforts. The steamers were ordered back as soon as the chief discovered the location of the fire.

Two years ago the barn on the Wilcox-Bates farm was wiped out by fire. Brief items: Sidewalks are becoming slippery and probabilities warn us to watch for more snow. Janesville has less epidemic than surrounding towns and cities. Trade in overhoses has been brisk today. Evening parties begin to prevail. J. A. Hovey has recovered from the injuries received by him while coupling cars a few days since. Most of our saloon keepers obey the order of the council requiring them to close their establishments at eleven o'clock. The freight train on the C. & N. W. railroad, due in this city at 9:30 a. m., ran off the track at Johnson's Creek, between Jefferson and Watertown this morning.

BY WALT MASON

If I'm hale and strong and hearty when the next campaign begins, I will start the Sorehead Party—that's the sort of thing that wins. 'Twill be better far than tonics for the dis-appointed fans, for the grouches and chronics and the brooding also rans. 'Twill provide a useful shelter for reformers who are lame; they'll come to it, hater skelter, when they learn its noble aim. Every statesman, full of sorrow, who would even up old scores, in the Sorehead ranks may borrow ointment for his wounds and sores. Oh, the party may be trusted to de- thanks; only those who are disgusted will be welcomed to its ranks. If the soreheads will assemble in one party, out for gore, all the other hosts may tremble as they never did before. In the past they have been scattered; in each party there were some; so their efforts little mattered—small success to them has come. But when once they are united, standing with unbroken front, oh the gods will be delighted as they do their winning stunt. Every aleck, every smarty, should get busy right away! Come and join the Sorehead Party—write your name down—no delay!

"Costermonger." Ribbed costard apples, a cooking kind, are now to be seen in the shops. The costard is referred to in the household accounts of Edward I., in whose reign the street seller of the apple was called a costardmonger—hence "costermonger" and "coster."—London Standard.

MEAN OF HER

Evenly—My suitor is one of those literary chaps. You should see the beautiful letters he writes in which he tells how much he loves me. Natic—Ah! I see; he is a joke writer.

The Daily Noveltie

Myrtle Ransbach. (Synopsis of preceding chapters: Myrtle Ransbach, beautiful daughter of a Milwaukee brewer, is in love with Simeon Cornescope, a poor though comparatively honest lawyer. Her father, however, the morning after he awoke to find that he had no family tree, warns her that unless she marries the Duke de Neustebane within a week he will cast her into a vat of malt and sell her in bottles all over the country. Terrified, Myrtle promises the duke that she will become his bride, although she simply cannot stand the sight of him. On the eve of the wedding there is a sound beneath her window. Hastily hanging her trousseau on the chandelier, Myrtle opens the window and sees Simeon Cornescope outside. In his hand he holds a large megaphone, and a horse and buggy are drawn up to the curb in front of the home.) Chapter XXXIX

Conclusion "Myrtle, oh Myrtle!" he boomed through the megaphone, fearful, evidently, that her father would hear. "What is it? What is it?" she whispered, hope clutching at her heart. "Have you any idea what time it is?" he belowed. "My watch has stopped." Slowly, with a heart like lead, she banged down the window.

Cool—I suppose a pawn ticket would not admit a fellow to see one of these games on the ice? Hook—Certainly not. Why should it? Cook—Well, hasn't it something to do with hook, eh?

His Best Friend. Many great writers besides Cicero and Emerson have written on friendship, but it may be doubted whether any essayist had a more definite idea than a small boy who was recently asked what he meant by "best friend." "My best friend," he replied, "is a person who knows me and yet likes me."—Collier's.

IT'S RISKY

IT'S A BIG RISK to hold an auction sale unless it is well advertised. You put up $2000 worth of property for sale; maybe it will bring $2000; maybe $1500; maybe less. It's up to you. It all depends upon how well you advertise it. One that is thoroughly advertised cannot help but be a success. Almost every sale that is advertised in the Gazette brings more than the proprietor expected. You can save a few dollars by trying to get along with a few bills or running a small ad in a paper with little circulation, but how about results? Will you find that you have saved anything when you count your money at the close of the sale? Sure you take chances on $2000 worth of property to save a few dollars at the outset?
